1 FIRST-PAINTING

I see a golden haired boy from the upside.
He is on a dried-up field of grass
He is alone walking some earthen path
A deamon is coming down from the heavens and it wispers the words 'Deny them all, now and forever'
The path ahead goes downwards
The boy receives a gift from the demon, a little flame.
Afetwhich the boy goes downwards

2 SECOND-PAINTING

I see a sickly, pale and languished youth protecting a flame from the strong winds inbetween his hands. The youth is pretty and has also golden hair.
The flame burns the flesh from his hands.
He is on a depression of the terrain, on the shade
To the right, on the light, there is a boy, similar to the sickly youth.
He seems well.
He is waiting to get the flame from the sickly youth.
