

Way-of-the-net

September 7, 2022

On the net you manifest the world around you, the internet expands your imagination and that of the other equally. So all can have an expansive imagination that is a subset of the internet, neighbor to you. so that we finalize our lives living in this glorious dream. none dream like the other, never the same. none reality emerges from the intersection of the lived experience for it is void. So my dream is controlled by me as are the others controlled by them in turn. So from my perspective it seems that I direct reality, but so does for everyone else. It is the commonalities of the fellow men that erected the temple of the internet, that make it seem so self-like, for its likely you'll see eye to eye with the architect so to speak. so the internet-temple of the individual resembles himself, its like a portrait of the man of late. some were born in this way some struggle to aprend, but by god we seem to go this way-forward, and by George blessed be the way of the algorithm, for sapiens lies with those that are content-creators and their tongue shall speak judgement, this is the famed way of the algorithm. this way of being of things makes it so reality itself appears to change but it's the individual himself that is driving the change of the dream, or reality for it is the same. is this way of the algorithm I was going to teach you about, their priest is called content-creator, and his flock is the virgin-man too afraid to venture outside, the virgin-man seeks solace in the teachings of the content creator, (aha but he doesn't know this way of being will wither when the neuroinplant sees mass commercialization and adoption. As did the book in its day some will still care about it but not in the same way as its heyday). the temple is the P2P shell, with countless terminals around the world, billions in fact, from embedded to socketed, this temple is OS agnostic. the rabbit-hole is the sin, the podcast is the misa. All is welcomed in the net, for there is nor good nor evil that evades copyright. blessed be the name ARPANET that his belic purpose has lasting acknowledgement from us, blasted be the brand for tainting our memes, for making the light of the dream dull
